WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 30.

The Legislature. The Legislature did not quite complete its work last evening, The Code was finally passed, but the bill providing for its publication was not agreed to by the Senate, an amendment having been made by that body which the House declined to agree to The two Houses will meet at 9 o'clock this morning, and is expected to adjourn sine die after a brief session.

SENATOR SUMNER IS preparing to speech on the finances, and is said to favor a speedy resumption of specie payments. Gen. Butler is also preparing a speech on the same subject, and holds that a resumption of specie payments is impossible.

THE Supreme Court reassembles early in January, and it is suggested in ome quarters, that Mr. Davis return at once and be surrendered by his bail. He will then be committed to custody, and a writ of habeas corpus will be applied for to the Supreme Court, and the discharge of the prisoner be asked for on the ground that the amnesty extended by the President absolves him from all liabilities. Letters have already been sent him to England urging that he allow his case to be the test, in order to discover the true weight of the President's proclamation.

CUMBERLAND coal is now in great demand in the eastern markets, especially for ocean steamers. The shipments from Cumberland this year, so far, are larger than ever before. The shipments by railroad and canal are over 50,000 tons in excess of the shipments last year up to the same date, and will reach 1,300,000 tons for the year.

Valuable Information. It is somewhat a singular fact, that Henry Ward Beecher, who is always finding new fields of usefulness, has re-Henry Ward Beecher, who is always finding new fields of usefulness, has recently started an enterprise (perhaps mission better describes it) in connection with Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, which might be patterned after by thinker. An attempt was made, when Christians and churches elsewhere with Jefferson was a young man, to make the Episcopal Church the established great advantage to society. He has adreligion of Virginia, John Leland, jacent to the church a building, which religion of Virginia. John Leland, a travelling Baptist minister, preached a sermon in the presence of Jefferson, on what he called the "incestnous connec-tion of Church and State," This ser-mon converted Jefferson to that doc-trine. His persistent opposition to a State religion caused him to be stigma-tized as a pinfield. Mrs. Madison, was he calls a Bethel, fitted up comfortably and abundantly supplied with a library of such books as furnish; profitable reading, with newspapers, periodicals, maps, and everything of a kindred nature calculated to entertain and inform.
This is thrown open on Sabbath and Sabbath evening, and persons of all grades of knowledge and cultivation are invited to avail themselves freely of its advantages. Mr. Beecher's philosophy is briefly this, that while he would prefer people should attend roligious service the number who do so is limited, while there are thousands who do not and will not, and these too the very ones who most need mental and maps, and everything of a kindred nanot and will not, and these too the very ones who most need mental and religious culture. Too many of these, for lack of attractions in this direction spend their Sandays either in profitless idleness, or in dissipation. Mr. Beecher therefore, endeavors to attract them to the rooms of his Bethel, to furnish them meaus of mental occupation and bring them under the improving and refining influences of est and devout attention he gave to the proving and refining influences of books.
